DUCK HUNTING REMINISCENCES

By Claude Fox

A sage once said that the most vulnerable part of a man's physical organization was his stomach, and it is an admitted fact, which is not subject to argument, that a woman's battle to secure the man of her choice for a husband is half won when she cooks him a fine dinner, for she is in nine times out of ten victorious. Be that as it may, "Bill" and I had decided to furnish Jack Stafford all the ducks he could consume in order to win his favor once more and permit my pal to go hunting with me again. True we did not cook the feathered birds of the marsh land for him, but we furnished the game for his table, well knowing that he had a very worthy wife who would attend to the culinary end of our diplomatic conspiracy. As a matter of fact we both knew that Mrs. Stafford was with us heart and soul. What mother's sympathy would not be enlisted in favor of the boy to whom she had given birth when he was engaged in the innocent pleasure of hunting wild water fowl, even though he had played hookey from school. Two of our martyred presidents had done the same thing.

"Gee, the old man enjoyed those ducks!" kept ringing in my ears as I started on my next hunt and was the incentive which made me redouble my efforts to see that the "old man" enjoyed some more. Ben Chew and Joe Leathers came in with quite a bunch of widgeon, so I determined to get some myself and sallied forth on the second mission in my diplomatic career. The winter of that year was a wet one. The rains set in early and severe cold weather in the north sent the birds scurrying southward. They needed no invitation to stop here. The fields were strewn with grain left on the ground by the harvesters of the preceding year and a duck picnic awaited the early arrivals here equal to that afforded by the rice fields of Glenn, Colusa and Yolo counties today. A wild duck will go where the food is, and if our Golden State does not supply it the webfoot will hasten on to South America if necessary.

The marshes were teeming with teal, widgeon and spoonbill by the middle of October and my second trip netted me sixteen beauties before the sun had traveled half its course across the sky. Eight were placed on a separate string for "Bill," but when I delivered them at the stable Mr. Stafford was engaged in breaking a fractious colt and did not see the birds until they were placed upon his table. My pal took good care to let him know, however, the source from whence they came and the results were more than gratifying to both of us.

While we were working out our little scheme there was one thing lacking which had to be overcome. Companionship was what most desired. To sneak out and kill the little puddlers alone did not bring the satisfaction I longed for. I wished some one for company, to share in the extreme pleasure which only a duck hunter fully realizes. So I began to look around for a pal to take "Bill's" place, at least temporarily, who would tramp the marshes with me. I did not have to look far. Three of the Cullen boys were afflicted with "duckitis" and I was naturally attracted to them. Ed Cullen had acquired an old single barrel musket that the boys of today would laugh at, but believe me "sure shot Ed" pulled down many a bird with that old fowling piece which, for all I know, had come "the plains across." But these boys, with whom I afterward hunted a great deal, were busy at work during the day time and confined most of their duck hunting to moonlight nights.

Around the corner on Maple street, just off of Phelps, in a little brown house which is still standing, property of the late John H. Offerman, lived the family of James Stalter, one of our pioneer citizens. Mr. Stalter was a man of stalwart character, whose church was his home and a fundamental principle of whose religion was strict attention to his own business. For years he was superintendent of the water works, owned at that time by this city, but which has long since passed into a mysterious oblivion which a Philadelphia bookkeeper could not trace with a telescope at Mount Hamilton. Be it said, however, that the man of whom I now write had nothing whatever to do with a valuable asset belonging to this municipality. Mrs. Stalter was a worthy helpmate of her husband, whose middle name was honesty. The kind, motherly regard which she had for her offspring stamped her as a woman of that type whose sterling character did so much to form the foundations of a state which today is an honor to the union. Both she and her worthy husband have passed on to meet their Maker.

As a result of their union six children, three boys and three girls, were born, all of whom are living today. In writing these reminiscences so many of those whom I speak of have passed into eternity that it is gratifying to note the fact that the Stalter boys and girls are still among the ranks of mortals. While the sweetest music to my ears was the rustle of wild ducks' wings, my heart could not as yet respond to the charms of the feminine sex, so I was attracted more to the boys of the family—Fred, Carl and Gus. , As Gus was the youngest and but a small boy at that time, the webfoot and its acquisition had little to interest him. Carl was a stranger to "duckitis," but whatever lack of interest both these boys took in the matter nearest my heart was more than made up for by Fred. He was afflicted as badly as myself, if such a thing was possible. As I look backward now it is difficult for me to undderstand how we both have survived. Fred was a few years older than myself, a boy who did not know what it was to be selfish, of a good disposition and above all possessed of a tireless energy, a qualification which is most essential in the pursuit of wild water fowl. Any person who thinks duck hunting is all pleasure would have that delusion dissipated by a day's experience. Good hard work is as necessary to success as the proper manipulation of a shotgun.

A firm friendship at once sprang up between us which has lasted ever since and exists today. Day after day, in sunshine and rain, night after night, under the brilliant light of the moon, we pursued the objects of our quest. No day was too stormy, no night too cold. The duck season latsed from September 1 to March 1, with no limit laws or game wardens to interfere. Even with six months to gratify our "duckitis" longings, the time seemed too short.

But upon one occasion during our long association was the friendship between us ever in danger and that but for a few moments. We were both shooting one night at the "First Fence" on the Sweeney ranch. I was sitting at the Little Pond and Fred was just north of me at the Big Pond. The flight that night was not very good, just a straggler coming in every ten minutes or so. Fred had a hunting dog with almost human intelligence which he called "Carlo." The dog had been working in the marsh all day before we arrived at the ponds for moonlight shooting and was undoubtedly pretty tired and hungry. Fred had knocked down a couple of ducks which the dog had failed to retrieve. As the ponds were only 200 yards apart I could hear the ducks plainly when they fell, but Carlo failed to perform his duty. I was at a loss to account for the dogs behavior, for he was usually a sure bet either day or night. Fred was getting pretty well riled up over the loss of the ducks and I could hear him first coaxing and then scolding the dog. A few minutes afterward a big drake widgeon came tumbling down out of the moonlit sky when Fred turned loose with his old Richards gun. The duck only had the tip of his wing broke, so he sailed nearly down to where I was sitting before he struck the ground. I raised up from my seat on the grass and started out to where the duck fell. As I stooped over to pick the bird up Fred could be heard giving old Carlo Hail Columbia or something equally expressive. His language was so forcible that the dog failed to move one way or the other. Suddenly almost in one breath I heard Fred exclaim: "Carlo, come here; lay down; go fetch him." The dog never movd and I could not blame him. Standing there with the crippled widgeon in my hands I laughed until my sides ached.

"What are you laughing at?" called Fred, who was not at all pleased with the funny side of the affair as I saw it. Walking over to where he was sitting I laid down the widgeon beside him and between the bursts of laughter told him that all I wanted to know was what wise old Carlo did when he received that complex order to "Come here, lay down, go fetch him."

FIREMEN THANKED

Editor Times-Gazette: I wish to thank the Redwood City fire department for its prompt response to an alarm of fire from box 37 Thursday. Within four minutes after the alarm the engine was on the premises at a distance of nearly two miles. It gives the community a feeling of safety to have such a prompt, efficient and courteous department. One does not mind paying increased taxes when the return is shown in increased competence.

CAROLINE H. ROBINSON.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT THE LOCAL AVIATION FIELD

Frances E. Lee, a Chinese aviatrix, and John Fourtney, builder of a monoplane, met their deaths on Thursday when they plunged from the machine in a field near the Varney field adjoining this city. They were up about 200 feet in the air when one of the wings broke and the machine got beyond the control of Fourtney. As the machine dashed toward the ground Miss Lee in some manner became free from the machine and was thrown out, her body being badly bruised and her head crushed when it struck the earth. When picked up Fourtney was unconscious, with his chest, lungs and heart punctured. He wa staken to the Redwood City Hospital, where Dr. J. P. H. Dykes soon arrived, Dr. Chapin coming later. For two hours the doctors worked hard over Fourtney, giving him every relief and doing all that medical science could do to relieve the injured man. They bandaged his wounds, but despite all that was done for him he passed away on the operating table. His lungs and heart were badly punctured and his legs were broken.

Michael Brown, the Varney field superintendent, said that it was criminal for anyone to have attempted a flight in Fourtney's plane. He said that Mrs. Lee was not even strapped in and added:

"The wings were improperly fastened to the body and not properly braced, internally or externally. The construction of the wings was very poor and the general design and construction showed absolute ignorance of elementary aviation."

Without heeding Mr. Brown's advice, who claimed the wings of the flying machine were too frail, Fourtney and the girl took the air at 10:30 in the morning. Frances E. Lee was the daughter of a Chinese merchant at Courtland, a town on the Sacramento river, and is said to have a divorced husband there. She was heard to tell people standing near the plane when it started up that if anything happened to give her rings to her father. Several months ago she took a course in aviation at the Varney field under the tutelage of Frank Bryant. She was a skillful flyer and was popular at the local field. She had arrived that morning from Courtland, intending to make the flight and buying a plane to be used at her home. The mangled remains were shipped from the Redwood City Undertaking Parlors yesterday afternoon to San Francisco.

The small plane known as the "Ford" was invented by Chester Slinger of Menlo Park, where he had a large shop. Fourtney was his partner and assisted in the manufacture of the planes. Fourtney before going to Menlo Park was an instructor when the local field was under the management of Frank Bryant. Fourtney served overseas in the aviation branch of the army. He was well liked by all who knew him.

Fourtney was a native of West Virginia and probably the body will be shipped to that state on Monday by the Redwood City Undertaking Company.

Coroner W. A. Brooke held an inquest on the bodies yesterday afternoon. Acicdental death was the verdict of the jury. No blame was attached to anyone.

This vicious proposal has menaced the farmers of California since 1912. Every two years this plan to make their farms valueless has been on the ballot.

Every two years it has cost $50,000 to defeat it.

If it is not defeated this year, every farmer faces bankruptcy.

It is vital to the farmer to destroy this menace to his prosperity. He can do this by voting for Amendment 4 which will keep the measure off the ballot in following years unless 25 per cent of the voters are willing to vote on it again.

Why let a handful of agitators and radicals force this pernicious plan on the ballot every election?

BAIL BOND REDUCED

Attorney Kenneth M. Green on Thursday asked Judge Buck to reduce the bail of his client, Cleo Tevis, from $1500 to $500. The request was granted, the district attorney agreeing to the reduction, believing the case against the accused was not very strong. Miss Tevis is accused of having some connection with the alleged crime of Dr. Hickok, charged with malpractice at Salada. He is alleged to have performed an illegal operation at the "Castle" at Salada some time ago. Miss Tevis was a nurse at the place.

COUNTY BOARD IN REGULAR SESSION

The board of supervisors met in regular session Monday morning at 10, there being present Chairman John MacBain, presiding; Mrs. Rosalie M. Brown and Dr. C. V. Thompson. Absent, Supervisor T. L. Hickey.

Chairman MacBain reported that he had arranged with Joe Smith of the Park Garage, Redwood City, for repairing the Ford automobile belonging to the county surveyor's office at a cost of $120. The chairman's action in the matter met with the approval of the board.

The board took up at this time the hearing of the petition filed at a previous meeting calling for the annexation of certain uninhabited teritory in the town of Hillsborough. There were no objections to the petition and the board, on motion of Mrs. Brown, seconded by Dr. Thompson, adopted a resolution that had been presented by Attorney A. H. Redington, representing the petitioners, consenting to the annexation of the above territory.

A petition signed by Alexander Hamilton and a number of other taxpayers and residents was received, asking the board to take steps to repair the de Las Pulgas road in the third township before the winter season sets in. The petition was ordered filed.

A communication was receivd from the Victory Live Stock Company advising the board that it had two suitable sites for hog ranches in the north end, on the Leipsig place, two and a third miles from Colma and the other on the Risso ranch, three and a half miles from Colma. The communication was ordered filed.

The report of J. R. Eubanks, superintendent of the county farm and hospital, showed that he had cared for 46 inmates during the month of September, 1920, four of whom had been discharged.

A number of claims belonging to the fourth road district and laid over from claim day were allowed by the board, on motion of Thompson, seconded by Mrs. Brown, as were also a claim of Ed Foster of San Mateo, amounting to $48 and being for wiring six election booths, and a claim of Mrs. Rose Manley in the sum of $27, being for sewing for the clothing department of the social service commission.

The following resolution presented and read by District Attorney Swart, covering the passage of Supervisor Joseph M. Francis, was adopted, on motion of Thompson, seconded by Mrs. Brown, and a copy ordered sent to the family of the deceased:

In the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, State of California.

Joseph M. Francis was born in Halfmoon Bay, San Mateo county, but forty-eight years ago. There he spent his childhood and grew to manhood. There he married and reared and loved his family. There he served and was loved, and there tenderly couched in sunshine and flowers we left him to eternity.

We here attempt not to chronicle the events of his life; we seek but to recognize as only in a measure we can, the quantity and beauty of his character.

Whole souled, big hearted, generous; honest, loyal, true; loyal to friend, genuine in every contact with his fellows, firmly anchored to principle—Joe Francis, as we lovingly knew him, was a man, a citizen, an official; a husband, a father, a neighbor that we could ill afford to lose.

For 12 years he served his county and state as supervisor of his home district. Once elected he was never opposed. For two years he presided over this board as its chairman. During the period of his incumbency the county has prospered and developed from the commonnplace to a position of prominence in its improvements and the standard of its government.

In his home community Mr. Francis and his neighbors worked together for good. He had the respect and confidence of every man, woman and child. While he never recognized it himself, he was, in fact, a leader. Whether as merchant, banker, official, or whether engaged in civic or patriotic duty, or while perhaps relaxing with his fellows on hill or stream, he was always the same jovial, big hearted, unselfish Joe.

It was just in the fullness of his life and work that he was stricken and taken from the community he loved and served so well.

Whereas, therefore, this board of supervisors, in regular session assembled, is desirous of permanently recording this work or recognition of the beautiful character and valued work of its colleague,

Be it resolved and ordered, that this statement be spread upon the minutes of this board and made a permanent record thereof.

In witness whereof, we, the members of an dconstituting the board of supervisors of San Mateo county, California, have hereunto affixed our signatures this 18th day of October, 1920.

JOHN MacBAIN,
ROSALIE M. BROWN,
C. V. THOMPSON,
T. L. HICKEY.

Attest: ELIZABETH M. NASH.
County Clerk and ex-officio clerk of the board of supervisors of San Mateo county.

AUTOS PURCHASED FOR REAL ESTATE SALES

Lambert & Walter have purchased two new six-passenger "Stephens Salient Six" cars, making four automobiles that this large and hustling real estate firm uses in showing its clients various San Mateo county and Santa Clara county properties. Both Mrs. Smith and Mr. Tucker, members of the office force, drive closed cars, so that rain or shine this hustling firm is right on the job. This is quite a credit to Redwood City.

COX KNOCKED LIVE HORNET'S NEST ON OWN PARTY'S HEAD

Charge Regarding Campaign Funds Flares Back and Singes Democrats.

THEY WANTED TEN MILLION.

People Willing to Contribute to Get Rid of Democrats, but Not to Keep Them in Power.

By WILLIAM HOSTER.

"God is everything," sang the poet. And this does not even exclude the campaign speeches of Governor Cox.

As a result of Mr. Cox's allegations of a big Republican Campaign Corruption Fund, certain definite facts have been demonstrated by the sworn testimony of the leaders of Governor Cox's own party. They may be summarized as follows:

It has been demonstrated that whereas, in their most sanguine moods, the Republican managers never contemplated a campaign fund of more than $4,000,000, the Democratic party, at an expense of one-half million dollars, set up the machinery for the collection of a campaign fund of $10,000,000.

It has been demonstrated that the contemplated $10,000,000 fund of the Democrats did not materialize for the sole reason that there aren't a sufficient number of plain people in the United States who want a continuance of Democratic rule, to contribute even one-tenth of $10,000,000.

It has been demonstrated that whereas, the great body of the people—literally thousands of them—have willingly contributed from 50 cents to $1,000 to be rid of the present Democratic administration, and to defeat Governor Cox; on the other hand not thousands and not even hundreds are willing to contribute 5 cents toward a continuance of Wilsonism.

What Records Show.

It has been shown by sworn records that whereas, in despite of Mr. Cox's outraged feelings over the disposition of thousands of ordinary American citizens to help pay the expenses of defeating him in his campaign for the presidency, Mr. Cox in 1914 viewed with complacency the criminal efforts of his campaign managers in Ohio to extort from the Civil Service employees of the state contributions intended to further his personal political fortunes. It has been shown by the testimony of Mr. Cox's own campaign managers that the $4,000,000 which the Republican managers hope to raise for all political purposes this year is not more than can legitimately be expended for this purpose, and that these frank Democratic managers would also like to have a similar amount, but don't see any way of getting it.

It has been shown that the common, ordinary rank and file of the American people, for the first time in American politics, are ready to contribute out of their own pockets to defeat a candidacy which represents all that is repugnant and hostile to American institutions, and that this willingness of the American people to contribute to the expense of defeating the Democracy is the sole basis of Governor Cox's charge of a conspiracy to buy the government of the United States. Incidentally it required the candidacy of Governor Cox to introduce into a national campaign the doctrine that it is possible for the people of the United States to buy their own government, unless Mr. Cox unconsciously means to convey the idea that in this campaign the people are to buy back their government from the autocracy which has seized it and refuses to let go.

Finally it has been conclusively demonstrated that if the Democratic party is to secure any money to waste in a vain effort to achieve a Democratic victory that money must come exclusively from men of the Colonel Deeds' type and the Dayton aircraft Plunderbund, and from the Wall street international financiers, who alone will profit through the participation of the United States in Wilson's League of Nations.

All of these conclusions have been demonstrated by sworn testimony before the Senate Committee with a mathematical precision which would have met the enthusiastic approbation of the late Mr. Euclid. Governor Cox's great expose has petered out. It was a false alarm.

Let's get back to the issues of the campaign.

SO PLEASED WITH GAS HEATING HE WANTED US TO KNOW ABOUT IT

In an unsolicited letter to this Company, an old and valued customer tells of the satisfaction derived from installed in his home about a year ago. His bills for the seven months of the heating season totalled $1.19. Of this amount he allows, from experience, $3.00 a month for the cooking, or a total of $21.00. His gas heating expense, then, averaged only $5.75 a month. This, in part, is what he says:

THE RECTOR SYSTEM OF

"We had all the heat we desired, in fact, my wife charged me with extravagance in the use of the radiators. We were able to have heat in any or as many rooms as we desired during the coldest weather and in sickness we kept the system running night and day and had a warm house to live in for comfort and health.

"We are very much pleased with the results and glad that we had it installed, though at first I was afraid of running up large gas bills. However, we are willing to pay extra for the cleanliness and saving of other work in heating our house. There are no burnt gas odors, as these are drawn out through the system and discharged in the open outside air.

"This letter is entirely unsolicited by you and you may use it if you wish. You can verify my gas bills by your own books."

The complete letter and name of the writer will be furnished if anyone is interested.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR
SAMUEL M. SHORTRIDGE

FOR CONGRESS 8th DISTRICT
ARTHUR M. FREE

ARTHUR M. FREE

FREE FOR CONGRESS

The numerous friends of Arthur M. Free, Republican candidate for congress in this district, who gave him such a splendid majority in the primary election, will be glad to learn that San Mateo county is by no means the only portion of the eighth congressional district where Mr. Free's forceful and pleasing personality have gained for him the confidence and support of practically everyone who has heard him speak.

Ray Hicks and E. A. Emmons, who are in charge of the publicity and advertising features of the Free for congress campaign, were in San Mateo yesterday and reported that indications are that Free will be a big winner in every county in the district throughout which he is now engaged in making an active personal campaign.

Emmons, who has taken an active part in every campaign since 1896, says that the only discouraging feature of the present contest is the difficulty of finding anyone with whom to argue, as nine people out of ten tell him they are for Free before he even gets a chanec to tell them why they ought to be.

The needlessness of the profit tears we are made to shed by the profiteers is being expounded by our Republican congressional candidate with a clarity which leaves no room for a doubt in the minds of his auditors that the wasteful policy of the present administration is unquestionably responsible to a great extent for the existing era of high prices without a precedent and the logical conclusion that a change of administration is the only remedy is so obvious that Mr. Free's clean cut policy of sensible retrenchment as expressed in his addresses is winning him universal support.

BETTER SALARIES FOR APPELLATE JUSTICES

Few more important votes will be cast at the November polls than that which will record the decision of the men and women of California upon the proposition to increase the salaries of the justices of the supreme court to $10,000 a year and of the justices of the district courts of appeal to $9,000.

The proposed increase in salary is small enough to be of no financial concern but the principle underlying its advocacy and recommending its emphatic approval is great enough to demand the recognition of everyone.

The people of California are deeply concerned in their courts of justice. All of us tre of one mind in demanding that these tribunals shall be maintained as models of clear, clean thinking, impartial justice and distinguished learning in a profession that touches all human life in the state.

HARDING---COOLIDGE---SHORTRIDGE

SHORT SKETCH OF SAMUEL M. SHORTRIDGE

Samuel M. Shortridge was born August 3, 1861, at Mt. Pleasanton, Henry county, Iowa, the son of a clergyman, who moved to the Pacific coast and settled in Salem, Oregon, where young Samuel had his first real chance to go to school. Soon after the family moved to California where Shortridge as a youth was called upon to aid the family finances by going to work in the mines.

First he opened the old overshot wheel at the Cold Springs Gravel mine, in Nevada county, and later worked at the forge until he became a good and experienced blacksmitht There being no opportunity in these surroundings for an education, Mr. Shortridge moved to San Jose and lived with his brother in order to attend the public schools. Selling papers, aweeping out the school house, lighting the street lamps of San Jose were some of the jobs undertaken by an ambitious youth to gain the much-sought education.

Shortridge graduated from the high school in 1879 and after doing post graduate work received a first grade state certificate entitling him to teach in any public school in the state. He taught school first for several years at Rutherford, Napa county, resigning to become principal of the St. Helena public schools. While teaching, Shortridge studied law and and in 1884 was admitted to the bar by the state supreme court. As a lawyer, he is recognized as one of the clearest thinkers and most level-headed members of the bar in the state. He is known as an orator of force and power and as a loyal fighter in the ranks of the Republican party.

Shortridge's fathter helped nominate Abraham Lincoln in 1860 and like Lincoln's, Shortridge's Republicanism has never been doubted. He has preached Republicanism for 36 years. In 1884 he opened the California campaign for James G. Blaine and ever since has campaigned the state from end to end for numerous candidates of the party. During all that time he has refused to accept any post of honor for himself except the most temporary.

Shortridge was presidential elector from the fourth distriot in the Harrison campaign in 1888 and presidential elector at large for William. McKinley in 1900. In the latter campaign he received more votes than had ever been given an elector in any previous campaign. He was also presidential elector at large for Taft in 1908.

Shortridge is one of California's best-known citizens, both in the state and out of it.

WOMEN OF CALIFORNIA WILL VOTE FOR SHORTRIDGE

The United States Senatorialship in California is not to be purchased because the women of California will not stand idly by and witness such a disgrace. It is to the voters of California to show the rest of the United States that California what Californians do not recognize that the Senate is only for millionaires and in order that the world may know the sentiment of the voters of California in this respect, Samuel M. Shortridge, a poor man, will be elected over his millionaire opponent on November 2nd.

This is the substance of a message sent Samuel M. Shortridge on the eve of his departure for the southern end of the state, by Mrs. Harry A. Kluegel, former president of the Pacific Coast Junior Red Cross.

Mrs. Kluegel just completed a tour of the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys. She traveled 1652 miles and made more than a score of speeches. Mrs. Kluegel's message said in part:

"This feeling is unmistakeable wherever I went, that Shortridge represents the plain people. Senator Phelan is too much apart from the people to understand their pressing needs. Born and reared in luxury, never having faced the necessity to go out and earn a dollar, capable of no association with the men on the street, accustomed to find his associates and cronies at the exclusive clubs of San Francisco, New York, and Washington, out of touch with the family life of normal man, representing in his property management every popular idea of the absentee landlord, with not a single progressive move to his credit in the Senate, Senator Phelan is not the man for Senator from California. If it wasn't for his millions he wouldn't have a ghost of a show and we will show him before this campaign is over that his millions can't save him.

"Not only the women but the men are determined to see that a California candidate will not be allowed to buy his way into the Senate, as though it were a seat in the stock exchange. The Senate of the United State is not a millionaire's club. It has enough men of that type in there now and we form progressive California are going to see that our next Senator has other qualifications."

To make our victory complete Mr. Shortridge must be elected. We must have a complete change in the administration of national affairs at Washington and we cannot have that change complete without the election of Mr. Shortridge. It is vital to the interests of our state to have a state senator who will support our president in his policies, and who will in turn be assisted and supported by the president. This will not happen if a Democrat is elected senator. To vote for Harding and for a Democratic senator is to approve Harding with one vote and cripple him in his work with the other; to ask Harding to enact his announced policies and then take away his means of putting those policies in effect. We have only a majority of one vote in the senate now and this election may change the control of the senate unless we elect Shortridge. To stand by Harding we must stand by Shortridge, not only for Harding's sake but for the best interests of our state.

A PERSONAL GOVERNMENT

A government by men—not a government by law—is what exists in the United States under the Democratic regime.

President Wilson upholds and enforces a law if it meets his approval—he defies, condemns and ignores a law if he does not like it.

When the LaFollette seaman's act was passed several years ago that measure provided new regulations which must be observed not only by American ships but by foreign ships entering American ports. The law provided, among other things, that the president be "requested and directed" to notify other governments that the United tSates would abrogate provisions of the commercial treaties which conflicted with the new seamen's act. President Wilson proceeded to carry out the provisions of that act, and when some nations protested against the abrogation of portions of the treaties he threatened to annul the treaties entirely unless the changes were agreed to. He upheld the law.

The Jones merchant marine law contained very similar provisions in that they conflicted with treaties, and the president was "authorized and directed" to notify other nations that the United States would abrogate such treaties so far as they conflicted with the law. President Wilson signed the act, but has since refused to execute it, declaring that congress has no authority to direct him to abrogate the treaties or portions of them, and that to do so would be a violation of the treaties and would "falsify every profession of our belief in the binding force and the reciprocal obligation of treaties in general."

In other words, a law is binding if the president so wills; he is at liberty to overthrow the law if he so desires. He is above the law—he is a law unto himself—he is the state.

Unfortunately Governor Cox, the Democratic nominee for the presidency, seems to be at one with President Wilson, as he is on the league of nations question. In a campaign for the presidency there is no issue more important than the candidate's conception of the presidential office—its duties, responsibilities and limitations. President Wilson's course has been promptly denounced by Senator Harding, but raises no word of protest from Mr. Cox. By his silence, being the nominee of the party for which President Wilson is still spokesman, Mr. Cox gives his assent to the Wilsonian policy and the Wilsonian conception of the rights and duties of a president.

Government by men, by bureaucracy, by autocracy, is the Democratic policy. Government by law is the Republican policy. The voters will have a chance to register their views at the ballot box in November.

Mr. Cox declared in an address in Oklahoma, "Mr. Wilson is not running this year." He will remark when he reads the election returns, "Well, I didn't run very fast myself."

If you have had enough of Wilsonism there is just one way to say so on election day. You can't say it by voting for Cox, the Wilson candidate.

The nearer we get to eletcion day and the assurance of Republican administration, the higher the market price of Liberty Bonds.

BIG DEAL IN SAN PEDRO LANDS

A ranch containing 550 acres belonging to Max Mamlock was sold this week to C. Lighton of San Francisco. The property is a portion of the San Pedro ranch located in the San Pedro valley. The deed was filed in the office of T. C. Rice, the county recorder, on Tuesday. According to the federal stamps on the instrument the sum of $26,000 was paid for the realty.

SINGLE TAXERS PLAN FARM CONFISCATION

Single Tax, four times beaten in California, is on the ballot again this year.

It proposes to exempt from taxation nearly FIVE BILLION DOLLARS' WORTH of public utility and corporation franchises and securities, personal property, improvements and buildings, including all-city structures, and to add the tax on this huge sum to the tax burden the land already bears. What Single Tax would do to the farmer is best told in the words of its creator, Henry George. He says in his book, "rogress and Poverty," which is the bible of the Single Taxers:

"Let the individuals who now hold it still retain, if they want to, possession of what they are pleased to call THEIR land. * * * Let them continue to call it THEIR land. * * We may safely leave them the shell if we take the kernel. IT IS NOT NECESSARY TO CONFISCATE LAND; IT IS ONLY NECESSARY TO CONFISCATE RENT."

This vicious proposal has menaced the farmers of California since 1912. Every two years this plan to make their farms valueless has been on the ballot.

Every two years it has cost $50,000 to defeat it.

If it is not defeated this year, every farmer faces bankruptcy.

It is vital to the farmer to destroy this menace to his prosperity. He can do this by voting for Amendment 4 which will keep the measure off the ballot in following years unless 25 per cent of the voters are willing to vote on it again.

Why let a handful of agitators and radicals force this pernicious plan on the ballot every election?

I AM YOUR WIFE

Oh, let me lay my head tonight upon your breast,
And close my eyes against the light, I fain would rest.
I'm weary, and the world looks sad; this worldly strife
Turns me to you; and, oh, I'm glad to be your wife!
Though friends may fail or turn aside, yet I have you.
And in your love I may abide, for you are true—
My only solace in each grief and in despair,
Your tenderness is my relief; it soothes each care.
If joys of life could alienate this poor weak heart
From yours, then may no pleasure great enough to part
Our sympathies fail to my lot. I'd e'er remain
Bereft of friends, though true or not, just to retain
Your true regard, your presence bright, through care and strife.
And, oh, I thank my God tonight, I am your wife! —Old Clipping.

CHANGE IN ADMINISTRATION

The above was taken from the Knights of Columbus Bulletin:

On Monday evening, October 11th, the new officers for the coming year were installed by Supreme Warden David R. Supple and team from San Francisco. Past State Deputy James R. Keith and our past treasurer, Geo A. Gadd, were also in attendance. Through the inclemency of the weather the attendance was a bit below normal but fortunately enough brothers were present to provide a full quota for the installing officers to work upon. Those installed were:

Grand Knight, Jos. J. Hahir.
Deputy Grand Knight, Miles Sharkey.
Chancellor, C. E. O'Connell..
Warden, Frank Meyers.
Financial Secretary, P. H. Sonntag.
Recorder, Francis Rapp.
Treasurer, Henry Breen.
Lecturer, Thos. T. Bransen.
Advocate, R. L. McWilliams.
Inside Guard, Thos. Broderick.
Outside Guard, J. J. Shields.
Trustee, Louis Pollard.

COMING EVENTS

Through the untiring efforts of Mrs. G. W. Hitchcock, chairman and her competent aids, Mrs. Geo. Cameron, Mrs. Nion Tucker, and other prominent ladies of the parish, arrangements have been completed and everything is now ready for the opening of "The Country Store" for the benefit of St. Catherine's Parish, at Burlingame.

The "Store" will be located in the Seven Lodge Garage near the depot and will be open Saturday afternoon and evening, October 23rd. Kewpie Bransen will be in charge of the doll booth. Harry Pinkham will impersonate the bucket in the Mystic Well, and Jos. Hahir will have a wheel. You know Father Grant, fellows. Fix your dates so you'll land in Burlingame on Saturday night and help make him happy.

On the nights of October 27, 28, 29 and 30, a Ladies' Festival will be held in Alhambra Hall, Redwood City for the benefit of Mt. Carmel Parish. This promises to be an elaborate affair this year, as Father Kennedy has had his committees working at a speed for some time past. A public "rummage sale" conducted by Mrs. Weller and Mrs. Chubbick will be continued at the Festival. Mrs. Geary will have the lemonade fountain, Miss Fitzpatrick, the "Sweet Shop," Mrs. Kearse the Pioneer Booth. The names of the operators of the "Home Brew" booth will be announced later.

The Major degrees will be conferred on a large class in Vallejo on Sunday, October 31st. Full details of the exemplification will be given at our next meeting, October 25th.

From April to October, for over five months, this organization has been featuring Good Clothes under Fifty Dollars. We announced our "lower-price campaign" in April, when the wholesale costs faced the sharpest advance in years—and determined then to do our utmost to hold prices down. Quality buying and minimum profits resulted in these wonderful suits for $47.00.

Since then our buyers have been in the Eastern Markets constantly, taking full advantage of every change... Month by month we've added better suits, finer fabrics, and newer styles to offer, as we first announced, "the best suit values obtainable always." New lots are here, and they're quality suits that represent everything a man needs for good clothes value, except the high price.

The public health service at Washington, which is in charge of the base hospital, during the week exercised its option on three pieces of real estate surrounding the institution. The properties bought by the government were the Ira Merrill tract of eight acres, 11 acres from Capt. Will Cooley and the Hoag tract of 70 acres on which the buildings stand. The government has options on two other pieces at the same place and may close them at any time. It is the purpose of the government to erect building to cost $21,000,000 on the present hospital site. Fancy prices were paid for the property bought by the government. It is said the price was $2,000 an acre. Beautiful ground will surround the hospital. They will be laid out in green lawns, ornamental trees and shrubbery. Sidney Clack is to be the landscape gardener. He has been in charge of the gardens for over two years.

TUITE WRITES FROM IRELAND

Thomas Tuite has written to his friends here from his boyhood home at Athboy, County Meath, Ireland. He left here in August. Mr. Tuite and family arrived safely and they are enjoying the wonders of the Little Green Isle. Mr. Tuite says that everything is peaceful in that portion of Ireland. He says also that the rioting is magnified by the press and that there is not the distress in Ireland as reported in the American press. He believes, however, that Ireland will soon receive her independence; that England, owing to the sentiment at home, will be compelled to give up the island to the Irish who have valiantly fought for over seven centuries to throw off the shackles of tyranny.
